

PERSONAL STATEMENT

I was an English teacher and liaison with foreign teachers has equipped me with strong communication skills and a deep understanding of diverse perspectives. Now, I'm excited to transition into software development as a full-stack developer. My passion for learning, problem-solving, and attention to detail drive me to programming languages and debugging processes. I've discovered my enthusiasm for not only user interface design but also server-side development and databases. I'm ready to bring these skills and my newfound passion for coding to create innovative solutions.
